

Fabergé Eggs

What Is a Fabergé Egg?

A Fabergé egg is a jeweled decorative egg.

They were made by Peter Carl Fabergé, between 1885 and 1917.

Photos courtesy of Steve Miller (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence – attribution

What Is a Fabergé Egg?

The Fabergé eggs were made for the Russian Royal family, with the first one being made for Tsar Alexander III to give to his wife as a gift.

They are very rare as only 65 were ever made.

Photo courtesy of jasonpier (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence – attribution

What Is a Fabergé Egg?

Queen Elizabeth owns three Fabergé eggs.

A Fabergé egg is worth over £20 million pounds!

Photo courtesy of ctj71081 (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence – attribution

Fabergé Eggs

Photos courtesy of cobalt, aadl and greenacre8 (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence – attribution

Fabergé Eggs

Photos courtesy of axelsrose, carlos_octavio and crooked fingers (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence – attribution

Fabergé Eggs

Photos courtesy of citylove22 and adentex(@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence – attribution

twinkl