

Hello,

It feels very strange not being at school. I have work to do at home, but I also have time to do things that ordinarily I wouldn't be able to do. I think it is probably the same for you.

This morning I saw two butterflies and that reminded me that a young girl called Rebecca, who is also off school because of COVID-19, will be sharing her knowledge about butterflies on YouTube at 'Rebecca's Butterfly Farm'. Perhaps you could take a look, and when you are having your daily exercise or just a breath of fresh air outside, you could identify and share the names of any butterflies that you see.

<https://www.youtube.com/channel/UC2NC644oeM8PwKZXtFMLnuA>

Did you know that in Britain there is a butterfly that shares its name with a punctuation mark. Can you find out what its name is; what it looks like and how it got its name?

Answers next week.

Best wishes,

Mrs Lamb