

Dear Year 1 Butterworth,

I hope you are well, keeping safe and enjoying this week's home learning tasks. 😊

Since the last time I wrote to you the month has changed, we are no longer in March. We are now in ____? What month do you think we are in? and how many days are in this month? I will reveal the answer next time. 😊

I also set you a challenge of skip counting in 2s until you reached the number 40 when washing your hands ... I hope you were all able to do this. This week's 'washing hands' challenge is to skip count by 5s until you get to 100. I know you can do it 😊

I found a positive news story that I would like to share with you...

A community of people in the state of Wisconsin, America organised a street parade of dinosaurs... not real ones of course 😊 People in the community dressed up in dinosaur costumes and walked around the neighbourhood, always making sure to be 2 metres apart, to make people smile. Looks like they had lots of fun!

Perhaps you could organise a dress up parade inside your homes with your families? 😊

Remember if you have any questions about any of your tasks please let me know.

Stay Safe

Miss Riccardi
